Experienced attorney with a client-first approach. Valued combination of a skilled litigator who adroitly handles real estate and other business transactions.

Shawn L. Demers is a seasoned commercial litigator and corporate attorney known for delivering strategic, client-focused representation across a broad spectrum of business disputes and transactions. His practice spans every stage of complex commercial litigation, from early case evaluation and negotiation through trial, as well as a robust corporate practice serving companies across multiple industries.

Shawn also serves as outside general counsel for several growing and established businesses, providing legal guidance on governance, operational risk, contract structuring, and strategic planning. He has extensive experience with commercial landlord/tenant matters and routinely represents landlords, tenants, and business owners in disputes involving commercial use, occupancy, operations, and contract performance.

Shawn helps clients simplify complex issues, anticipate challenges, and find practical, business-driven solutions. Whether navigating a contentious commercial dispute or preparing a high-stakes contract, he combines sharp legal analysis with a steady, solution-oriented approach. As an accomplished vegan Ironman triathlete competing for the Team Infinit Competition Team, Shawn applies the same discipline, endurance, and focus he developed through elite endurance racing to every aspect of his legal practice.
