Detail-oriented attorney with a real estate and banking foundation. Skilled in legal research and drafting contracts, loan documents, and closing materials.

Lexee Long's background spans real estate, banking, and working for political campaigns, providing a strong foundation for her transactional and regulatory practice at GrayRobinson. She partners with clients to draft clear and protective contracts and loan agreements and provides support for litigation teams in the development of closing documents and conducting comprehensive legal and financial research. She also assists in complex transactional matters, providing tax analysis, financial reviews, and loan preparation, ensuring accuracy and compliance for closings. Lexee's leadership roles in national political campaigns and professional organizations highlight her strong communication and organizational skills, further enhanced by advanced certifications in Westlaw and LexisNexis.
