Central Florida litigator providing powerful representation to business clients.

Jack Boudet is a litigation associate in the firm's Orlando office, where he focuses his practice on products liability, construction, personal injury, and class action defense.

Prior to joining GrayRobinson, Jack represented Fortune 500 companies in a variety of general negligence disputes at an insurance defense firm. He also served as a judicial intern for the Honorable Robert E. Long, Jr. at the First District Court of Appeals, where he honed his skills in legal research and drafting legal memoranda, as well as gained invaluable insight into a variety of appellate civil and criminal issues.

While in law school, Jack worked as a summer associate at GrayRobinson, where he first began to build his experience in premises and product liability, construction disputes, and commercial litigation. In law school, Jack was a member of the moot court team, where he was a two-time best brief award winner and national champion of the UCLA Cybercrimes Moot Court Competition.
