Versatile and experienced advisor guiding clients in marital and family law matters with expanded focus in estate planning.

Robyn Vines has been representing high-net-worth individuals and business owners in divorce and family law matters for over two decades. A thoughtful and practical advisor, she guides clients through prenuptial agreements, the divorce process, paternity and child custody issues, domestic violence issues, child relocation matters, and estate planning for Florida residents.

Robyn's litigation experience also includes representing businesses in banking, insurance, and commercial litigation matters, and providing regulatory counsel to businesses in the cannabis industry.

Highly regarded by clients and colleagues alike for her resourceful, determined approach, Robyn provides meaningful and impactful counsel across her areas of practice. She regularly teams with GrayRobinson colleagues in the estate planning, private client services, taxation, real property, intellectual property, and litigation practices to provide multidimensional service for a diverse range of clients.
